

Real public data, every corpus sha256-manifested

Solid arrows carry data forward and are labelled with what passes between stages. The dashed red edge marks the module whose predictive claim was withdrawn. Any stage lacking the evidence to proceed returns a certified negative rather than a default value.